DETAILED ANNOTATIONS

We sat down next to each other, but David wouldn't look at me. David tossed his head filling with badness and stared at track and field with a desiring eyes

. I walked forward to him and patted his shoulder softly and said with a gentle tone,

Why don't you try it? I know your grade and you are remarkable.

I think you can try it and I believe you can finish it."

David was surprised, showing his usual big toothy smile on his face when he heard my words

The instant, he decided to take part in this event, following his own heart although he couldn't take prize at last. Then, he signed up for this big cross-country run and walked toward the starting line with the other runners.

I watched as David moved up to the starting line with the other runners. David's eyes were filled with confidence and light but fixed a frintament for this run

I called him with a loud voice and said to him with a strong voice

, "Come up! I believe that you can!" The exciting competition stared.

He ran hardly although other runners passed him a lot and he didn't give up.

He ran with his sweats flowed from his face. At last, he finished this event and he walked toward me, hugging me with his eyes filled with appreciated tears

This experience made me and David that nothing is impossible, and we would never forget it.

POLISHED REVISION

Polished Version

We sat down next to each other, but David wouldn't look at me. He lowered his head, filled with sadness, and stared at the track and field with longing eyes. I walked forward, gently patted his shoulder, and said in a soft tone, 'Why not give it a try? I know your potential, and you're truly remarkable. I believe you can finish it.' David's face lit up instantly, his signature wide grin breaking through the clouds of doubt. Without hesitation, he decided to join the race, following his heart despite knowing he might not win.

He signed up and joined the other runners at the starting line.

I watched as David moved into position. His eyes, brimming with confidence and light, were fixed firmly on the finish line. I shouted encouragement, my voice cutting through the crowd: 'Come on! You' ve got this!' The race began. Though many runners passed him, he ran hard, sweat pouring down his face, refusing to give up. When he finally crossed the finish line, he walked toward me, embracing me tightly, tears of gratitude streaming down his cheeks. That moment taught both of us that nothing is impossible—and we would never forget it.
