POLISHED REVISION

✍ Polished Version

We sat down next to each other, but David wouldn't look at me. He lowered his head, lost in thought. I had high hopes for him, so I wanted to encourage him to join the cross-country team. I comforted him in a soothing voice: 'You've worked so hard for this event. I hope your efforts are rewarded, and I will support you forever.' My words flowed like a warm stream, touching his soul. David raised his eyes to meet mine, his gaze sparkling with confidence. He felt inspired. I was overjoyed to see that I had ignited his unyielding spirit. After a moment of silence, he said, 'I hope I can try it.' He laughed, his eyes shining with excitement. I pulled him into my arms and whispered, 'I believe you can do it.'

I watched as David moved up to the starting line with the other runners. Yet David's heart pounded with nerves, his palms slick with sweat. As the competition began, so nervous was he that he started off slowly. But beneath the fear lay a quiet strength—a determination that would carry him forward, step by step.
