POLISHED REVISION

 Polished Version

We sat down next to each other, but David wouldn't look at me. He lowered his head, lost in thought. I had high hopes for him, so I wanted to encourage him to join the cross-country team. I comforted him in a soothing voice, 'You've worked so hard for this event. I hope all your efforts pay off. I'll always be here to support you.' My words flowed like a warm stream, touching his soul. David raised his eyes to meet mine, his gaze sparkling with newfound confidence. He felt inspired. I was pleased beyond description that I had ignited his strong determination. After a moment of silence, he smiled and said, 'I hope I can try it.' He laughed, his eyes shining with excitement. I pulled him into my arms and whispered, 'I believe in you—go show them what you're made of.'

I watched as David moved up to the starting line with the other runners. Yet his heart pounded like a drum, and his palms grew clammy with anticipation. As the starting gun fired, he took off at a cautious pace. So nervous was he that he lagged behind at first. But with every step, his rhythm found its way, and soon he was running—not just for himself, but for everyone who believed in him.
